CREW requests that you state in writing and with particularity the reasons for any conclusion that a record is exempt or confidential. If some portions of the requested records are properly exempt from disclosure, you are required to redact those portions and produce the remainder of the requested records.

Over the past year, Atlanta has seen numerous incidents where law enforcement used excessive force against those protesting the police killings of Black individuals. On May 30, 2020, during a Black Lives Matter protest in the wake of George Floyd's murder, officers from the Atlanta Police Department forcibly dragged Black college students Messiah Young and Taniyah Pilgrim from their car, smashed its windows, and repeatedly used stun guns on the students.¹ Days later, on the night of June 12, Atlanta Police Department Officer Garrett Rolfe shot and killed Rayshard Brooks, a Black man, over the course of a DUI arrest.² Protests broke out over Brooks' death the next day, where riot police with guns deployed tear gas into the crowd.³ On September 23, 2020, Georgia state troopers used tear gas to disperse a crowd at the state Capitol protesting the acquittal of the police officers involved in Breonna Taylor's death.⁴ Additionally, Rolfe, who was fired on June 13, 2020 for Brooks' death, is now seeking to be reinstated; his lawyer argued before Atlanta's civil service board on April 22, 2021 that Rolfe was dismissed "without a proper investigation."⁵ The requested records would provide a clearer picture of the internal and external instruction and communication the Fulton County Sheriff's Office provided in how to respond to protestors, and, specifically, if violent tactics were encouraged or authorized. The records would also provide a fuller picture of the discussions related to Rolfe's potential reinstatement.
