UNCLASSIFIED//FOR OFFICIAL USE ONLY

Overview: The President of the United States announced Monday in a Rose Garden statement that he is mobilizing all available federal resources, civilian and military, to end "the violence and restore security and safety in America." The president said his measures would be effective "immediately" and said he has "strongly recommended" to every governor to deploy the National Guard in "sufficient numbers that we dominate the streets." The president said mayors and governors must establish an "overwhelming law enforcement presence until the violence has been quelled." If the city or state refuses to take the actions, the president said he would deploy the U.S. military.

As of Monday, 26 states across the country, and Washington, D.C. have activated their National Guard to respond to disturbances. According to a National Guard official, over 17,000 National Guard members are responding to civil disturbances in support of local authorities. There have been around 4,000 people arrested across the United States since disturbances began on Tuesday, according to a tally by CNN as of Monday morning.

Media reports indicated on Monday that neo-Nazi, and other paramilitary far-right groups, are calling for terror attacks during the ongoing unrest throughout the United States. A series of Telegram accounts linked to a wider network of paramilitary far-right extremists, have indicated that ongoing disturbances are spreading America's police forces thin, making this the ideal time to strike with a strategic attack. One account, with thousands of followers and links to several neo-Nazi terror groups like The Base and the Nordic Resistance Movement, called for attacks on critical infrastructure.

For the first time in 25 years, the entire Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP) system and all of its facilities are under a complete lockdown. The lockdown was prompted by large gatherings and rioting across the United States. The bureau had already been operating under what it calls "an enhanced modified operational model," or a modified lockdown, to promote social distancing and mitigate the spread of the coronavirus. However, the BOP says it implemented an additional, temporary security measure that results in a complete lockdown of all inmates to ensure the safety and security of both staff and inmates.

A Twitter account that posted a call to violence and claimed to represent the position of "Antifa" was reportedly created by a known white supremacist group, Twitter said Monday. Twitter removed the account for violating its policies by inciting violence and creating a fake account. Although the account only had a few hundred followers, it is an example of white supremacists seeking to inflame tensions in the United States.

Alabama: The Alabama governor's office announced Monday that it has given authorization to officials with the Alabama National Guard to activate up to 1,000 guardsmen, should the need arise in response to the unrest. However, no National Guard personnel have been deployed yet.

A state of emergency was declared in the city of Birmingham and a 7 p.m. local time Monday to 6 a.m. Tuesday curfew has been issued, the mayor's office announced Monday. Large crowds caused damage in many locations in Birmingham Sunday evening, including to the Alabama Power building.

California: The California Department of Human Resources sent a directive to close all California state buildings "with offices in downtown city areas" on Monday.

About 500 California National Guard troops began arriving in Sacramento on Monday. In Sacramento, city officials said the National Guard troops will help protect key infrastructure, while Sacramento police officers respond to any reports of violence and destruction of property. A citywide curfew will be in effect from 8 p.m. local time to 5 a.m.

Danville declared a state of emergency due to civil unrest. A curfew will be in effect from 10 p.m. to 5 a.m. and will remain in effect until further notice.

In Santa Clara, officials declared a local state of emergency Monday and implemented a curfew that will be in effect from 8:30 p.m. to 5 a.m. until further notice.

Los Angeles County and several other southern California cities declared sweeping curfews for their residents on Monday. The curfew for Los Angeles County went effect on 6 p.m. Monday and will last through 6 a.m. Tuesday, with the possibility to extend it, according to a signed ordinance from county officials. The Los Angeles city mayor's office extended a previous curfew, which will be in effect for the same period as the county. Beverly Hills extended both of its curfews after looters targeted the city over the weekend. Residents in Culver City were placed under a curfew, in effect from 4 p.m. Monday through 5:30 a.m. Tuesday. Officials in Riverside implemented a citywide curfew that takes effect 7 p.m. on Monday and lasts through 6 a.m. Tuesday morning. Long Beach issued a curfew for Monday.

Several cities across the San Francisco Bay Area have imposed curfews. Walnut Creek enacted a curfew, which began at 6 p.m. Sunday. Santa Rosa issued citywide curfew from 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. for the next three nights, beginning Monday and ending Thursday morning. In Fremont, residents must remain inside their homes from the hours of 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. through June 8.

Hayward, San Leandro, and Union City instituted curfews as the ongoing unrest spawned a police shooting of a looting suspect in Hayward, and the ransacking of the Bayfair Center in San Leandro. Hayward imposed a curfew from 8 p.m. until 5 a.m. until June 8. San Leandro's curfew is in effect from 6 p.m. until 5 a.m. until June 8

Illinois: A disaster proclamation has been issued for nine Illinois counties. These counties include Champaign, Cook, DuPage, Kane, Kendall, Macon, Madison, Sangamon, and Will. In addition, 250 more Illinois National Guard members will be activated to give support to affected counties. The Illinois State Police has also been ordered to provide an additional 300 troopers to municipalities.

The Peoria Police Department in Illinois responded to multiple scenes throughout late Sunday and early Monday related to unrest in the area. Between 10:00 p.m. local time Sunday and 4:30 a.m. Monday, Peoria firefighters responded to more than 10 vehicle fires and several dumpster fires.

Indiana: The Indiana governor's office announced Monday that the Indiana National Guard Reactionary Force was deployed to protect state property. The National Guard was activated on Saturday but had not been deployed until Monday. The state also announced the signing of an executive order that lifts restrictions on local declarations of emergency which "allows local governments to place more stringent travel restrictions than the state has in place."

In Lafayette, individuals threw bricks and at least one explosive device at the Tippecanoe County Courthouse just days before Tuesday's primary election. Officials plan to hold elections as normal.

Iowa: A Davenport police officer was shot and wounded early Monday in what officials described as an ambush and two people were killed in shootings as unrest continued in the area. Police announced that two people died, and a third person was injured in separate shootings. By early Monday, police had responded to 45 serious disturbance calls.

Kentucky: Shots were fired at Louisville police and members of the National Guard during a gathering early Monday morning near the intersection of South 26th Street and Broadway. Police reportedly returned fire, killing one person.

Maryland: The Baltimore Police Department has activated the Maryland State Police to assist with crowds in the downtown Baltimore area, said the department on Twitter on Tuesday. "Officers have observed members in the crowd setting off illegal fireworks and throwing objects near peaceful [gatherings] and officers," said the tweet. The police said they were receiving assistance from the Maryland National Guard in transporting personnel and resources throughout the city.

Massachusetts: A number of Boston police officers were injured during the disturbances Sunday night, which saw 40 people arrested. Seven injured officers were taken to the hospital, more were treated on scene, and at least 21 police cruisers were damaged, said the police department.

Minnesota: A senior official in Minnesota announced Monday that an executive order has been signed to extend the curfew in Minneapolis and St. Paul for two more days. The curfew will run from 10 p.m. local time to 4 a.m. The official also announced that some members of the National Guard who had been deployed to Minneapolis and St. Paul will start returning home as soon as Monday afternoon.

More than 350 people were arrested in Minneapolis and St. Paul over the weekend as authorities initiated a combined response to the unrest. The Minnesota Department of Public Safety said early Monday that 362 people were taken into custody since the Multi-Agency Command Center was established Friday.

Missouri: Four police officers in St. Louis were shot on Tuesday. Their injuries were believed to be non-life-threatening, according to police. Officers were still reportedly taking gunfire in the downtown. One police source says that people were shot at multiple locations in the downtown area.

Nevada: There were reports of possibly two shootings in the Las Vegas area, one near Bridger and Las Vegas Boulevard and also near Circus Circus on Las Vegas Boulevard. There were gatherings that were reportedly taking place in the area.

New Jersey: Trenton officials instituted an 8 p.m. curfew on Sunday. Media reported damage to stores and police vehicles on Monday during overnight unrest in Trenton. At least one police SUV was burned and individuals also smashed what are believed to be at least three unmarked police SUVs. Officials said several individuals were arrested.

New York: Authorities said that two officers were hospitalized after a car attempted to drive through a police line in Buffalo Monday night. Injuries appear serious in nature. There were also reports that two people have been struck by gunfire.

A senior state official added that 8,000 police officers will be out Monday night in New York City. The city issued a curfew from 11 p.m. Monday to 5 a.m. Tuesday. The mayor's office announced the curfew will be extended into Tuesday and begin earlier. The second curfew will start Tuesday night at 8 p.m. and will remain in effect until 5 a.m. Wednesday.

New York City police say 200 people were arrested Sunday across the city, bringing the total of people arrested over four days of unrest to nearly 1,000.

North Carolina: The Greensboro mayor's office issued a city-wide curfew on Monday effective immediately after unrest in the area led to multiple businesses reporting damages. The curfew will be from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. until modified or rescinded.

Raleigh enacted a curfew starting Monday night, after two nights of unrest led to street fires, store break-ins, and fireworks being thrown at officers. The curfew will run each night from 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. and will remain in place until officials decide to rescind it.

On Sunday, a senior state official authorized 450 North Carolina National Guardsmen to mobilize between Raleigh and Charlotte.

Overnight Sunday, four were arrested from incidents at Triangle Town Center with three arrests stemming from North Hills. Also, stores such as Target, Ross, Dick's Sporting Goods, and Walmart, were damaged around Triangle Town Center.

They are also reportedly tried to breach barricades one block from the Seattle Police Department's East Precinct. The Washington State Patrol close I-5 in both directions between I-90 and Highway 520 for "precautionary purposes" on Monday.

Washington State Patrol temporarily shut down I-5 in Seattle Sunday night due large gatherings.

Washington's King County, which includes the city of Seattle, declared a state of emergency due to "violence and thefts associated with some of the local [disturbances]." The statement said the county activated its Emergency Operations Center on Saturday to respond to "significant civil emergency."

Washington, D.C.: The President of the United States said he is also taking "swift action" to protect Washington, D.C., including dispatching "thousands and thousands of heavily armed soldiers, military personnel, and law enforcement officers to stop the rioting, looting, vandalism, assaults, and the wanton destruction of property." He also said the 7 p.m. curfew in the city will be "strictly enforced." Washington, D.C., reissued a citywide curfew earlier Monday. An active-duty military police battalion consisting of 200 to 250 personnel was deployed to Washington, D.C. The Pentagon said 600 to 800 National Guard troops were being sent to Washington, D.C. Pentagon officials said the primary role of the new National Guard forces would be to defend national monuments, protect the White House, and coordinate with the District's police. The additional National Guard forces are coming from Delaware, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, and Utah, according to the officials. U.S. Customs and Border Protection personnel have been deployed to the National Capital Region to assist law enforcement partners. The U.S. Department of the Army reportedly sent an alert to the 82nd Airborne Division, green lighting the deployment of an Immediate Response Force to the D.C. area. Arlington County police officers from Virginia who were assisting U.S. Park Police during gatherings in Washington, D.C., were ordered "to immediately leave." The county announced that all Arlington County police officers left at 8:30 p.m.

Over the weekend, 61 U.S. Park Police officers and seven Washington, D.C., police officers were hurt. Three Park Police officers were hospitalized. A total of 88 people were arrested.

To All ICE Employees
May 26, 2020

(b)(6); (b)(7)(C) Selected for Senior Executive Service as ERO Denver Field Office Director

I am pleased to announce the selection of (b)(6); (b)(7)(C) as the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Enforcement and Removal Operations (ERO) Field Office Director (FOD) for the Denver Field Office.

Prior to his selection, most recently, Mr. (b)(6); (b)(7)(C) served as a Deputy FOD for ERO Denver, where he also served as Acting FOD for much of 2019. In 2018, he was detailed for six months to the DHS Joint Task Force-West in San Antonio, Texas, where he served as Deputy Chief of Staff. (b)(7)(E) oversaw the initial rollout of Operation Opioid Counter Strike, a multi-agency, cross-corridor operation at the federal, state, local, tribal, and international levels to disrupt Transnational Criminal Organizations trafficking in opioids.

Mr. (b)(6); (b)(7)(C) served in the U.S. Air Force from 1991 to 1996 as a Security Police/Security Forces member. He began his federal law enforcement career in 1996 with the Federal Protective Service (FPS) as a police officer for the General Services Administration, where he was assigned to the New York Terrorist Trials Operations Command in New York City. In 1997, FPS transferred him to Denver, Colorado, to work on both of the Oklahoma City bombing trials. Two years later, he became a Deportation Officer for U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Denver.

In 2003, Mr. (b)(6); (b)(7)(C) was selected to be an instructor for the newly formed ICE ERO Academy at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, where he taught in the Physical Techniques Division and the ICE ERO Fugitive Operations Academy.

In 2005, Mr. (b)(6); (b)(7)(C) was promoted to Supervisory Detention and Deportation Officer for the Denver Field Office. There, he helped establish the Criminal Alien Program and the 287(g) Task Force. He was promoted in 2011 to Assistant FOD (AFOD), where he presided over Non-Detained Docket, Criminal Alien Program, Violent Criminal Alien Section, Mobile Criminal Alien Team, Alternatives to Detention, and Fugitive Operations. He also served as the AFOD over Field Operations, Emergency Management, and Intelligence. (b)(7)(E) attended the U.S. Marshals Service Training Academy and completed the Fugitive Investigator Course.

Please join me in congratulating Mr. (b)(6); (b)(7)(C) and welcoming him to his new position.

Los Angeles was under curfew for a second night as city officials announced Sunday that it would extend its restriction, which was in effect from 8 p.m. local time Sunday to 5:30 a.m. Monday morning. The National Guard patrolled Los Angeles on Sunday morning. Law enforcement planned to double the Los Angeles Police Department's workforce Sunday night and 500 National Guard members would join police in maintaining order. Looters reportedly smashed windows at the Santa Monica courthouse Sunday. A Los Angeles police cruiser struck people gathering downtown after being surrounded.

San Diego County declared a countywide local emergency Sunday in response to the riots that have resulted in several vandalism reports, arson, looting, and assaults. In the local emergency declaration, the county found "that these emergency conditions are beyond the control of local resources, services, personnel, equipment and facilities. Some cities within San Diego County had previously enacted curfews. Authorities deployed flash bangs and pepper balls to try to disperse the crowd that gathered in front of the San Diego County Administration Center after declaring an unlawful assembly. Some storefronts around Ash and Columbia streets had windows broken. Officers and vehicles near Union and A streets were being assaulted with rocks, according to the San Diego Police Department.

The National Guard was deployed to Long Beach Sunday to help the police department with people gathering who turned violent and looters and vandals who fanned out across the city.

In Sacramento, police used flash bangs and tear gas near the Capitol to disrupt crowds after declaring a gathering an unlawful assembly Sunday.

The San Francisco mayor's office announced the city implemented a curfew, starting at 8 p.m. on Sunday.

Nearly 400 people were arrested in Los Angeles Saturday night, according to a police official, adding that the bulk of those arrests were for looting. The Los Angeles mayor's office said Saturday that all of the city's COVID-19 testing centers were closed as of 3 p.m.

At least two banks and a fire truck were set on fire in Le Mesa Saturday night.

Colorado: The FBI Joint Terrorism Task Force (JTTF) was deployed in Denver to "apprehend and charge violent agitators...engaging in violations of federal law," a U.S. official stated Sunday. The JTTF has been directed to investigate any potential violations of federal law associated with the ongoing activity in Denver and elsewhere.

Dozens of officers have been injured during disturbances over the last few days. Denver police arrested 83 people Saturday night, with some having charges for throwing missiles, damaging property, and having prohibited. A vehicle of interest has been located by police during an ongoing investigation after three officers were intentionally struck Saturday night. During a vehicle search near the downtown Denver mass gatherings on Friday evening, police officers seized several military-style assault rifles, media reported Sunday. In the car, which was occupied by a group of young men, one of whom was wearing a military-style vest, police found several semi-automatic assault rifles, numerous magazines, and other weapons.

An officer in Jacksonville was "stabbed or slashed in the neck and is currently in the hospital," a Jacksonville official said Sunday morning. The official said other officers were attacked by people and hit with rocks and bricks. Many arrests were made, he said, though he did not have a precise number.

Georgia: The Atlanta mayor's office signed an executive order Sunday "extending curfew in the entire territorial jurisdiction" of the city. The curfew began at 9 p.m. Sunday and will end at sunrise Monday.

The Atlanta Police Department reported 70 individuals were arrested on Saturday night during the disturbance. Police officers had rocks and other items thrown at them, while downtown properties also suffered damage.

Illinois: The Illinois National Guard was activated to "support" Chicago amid continued disturbances that led to 240 arrests, six people shot, and one death, officials announced on Sunday. A citywide curfew was effective from 9 p.m. local time to 6 a.m. daily until further notice. Access to Chicago's Central Business District and Loop was reduced to only employees whose businesses are located within the area, people who live in the area, or people conducting essential activities. Train and bus service was suspended for the Loop area "for public safety reasons." Several street bridges over the Chicago River were closed on Sunday.

Aurora declared a state of emergency and issued a mandatory curfew on Sunday.

Individuals in downtown Chicago on Saturday were able to disrupt police communications so as to prevent police from responding properly, a source said. Individuals put police radio frequencies on the internet, and when police attempted to talk to each other, they heard music.

Indiana: The Indianapolis mayor's office imposed a curfew from 8 p.m. local time Sunday to 6 a.m. Monday.

Massachusetts: The National Guard was deployed to Boston amid reports of vandalism and destruction of several stores and police vehicles on Sunday. State police said at one point a transit police cruiser responding to a report of an officer down was surrounded by "an aggressive and combative mob who began to strike the cruiser." Fires were also being set in Boston Common, and the walls and staircase outside the State House were vandalized with spray paint.

Michigan: The Detroit mayor's office announced the city was under a curfew from 8 p.m. local time Sunday to 5 a.m. Monday.

Detroit officials reported 84 people were arrested on Saturday night and 60 people were arrested on Friday night amid the unrest.

Minnesota: The governor's office announced Sunday that the 8 p.m. local time to 6 a.m. curfew and freeway closures, including I-94, I-35W, I-35E, I-394, and MN 55, was extended in an effort to curb unrest in the Twin Cities. A large semi-truck drove into a crowd of people on I-35W in Minneapolis Sunday. Police said there were no reports of people hurt. A driver was in custody.

Minnesota's governor said Saturday the state was using "intelligence support" from the U.S. military. The U.S. Department of Defense was providing "intelligence support of what they're seeing, what they're signal intercepting"

The Minnesota National Guard reported that they have been notified by the FBI of a "credible threat" directed against them prior to their activation. The Minnesota National Guard was deployed on 29 missions, according to a commander from the Minnesota National Guard. The majority of the missions were ongoing in Minneapolis and St. Paul. The National Guard in Brooklyn Center was called in to assist the Red Cross in providing aid to those displaced by unrest.

The Minnesota governor says state computers were hit by cyber attackers before law enforcement launched operations Saturday to handle unrest. According to the governor, the cyber-attack was sophisticated.

Law enforcement officials in Minnesota believe there are white supremacists attending gatherings in the Twin Cities.

Minnesota law enforcement has found caches of incendiaries, weapons, and stolen vehicles while responding to unrest in the Twin Cities, an official from the Department of Public Safety said Sunday. Officers have found mixtures of oil and gas hidden in boxes and grassy areas near the sites of fires. Flammables were also found in vehicles, many of which are believed to be stolen because they have had their license plates removed. In addition, rocks, other projectiles, and weapons have been found during enforcement. An official said that officers made 55 arrests through 2 a.m. on Sunday and somewhere between 40 and 50 more by 6 a.m. He added most of those arrests stemmed from weapon violations. One officer was shot at, but not injured.

Missouri: The St. Louis County Police Department said seven officers suffered minor injuries when people began attacking the Ferguson Police Department Saturday. At least 11 police and fire vehicles were damaged by items thrown, and a bullet damaged one vehicle as well.

Nebraska: An Omaha city official announced the city declared a state of emergency and was instituting a curfew Sunday. The curfew was from 8 p.m. local time Sunday to 6 a.m. Monday. The state of emergency will last 72 hours. The governor's office also announced the state was mobilizing the National Guard.

Nevada: The Reno police building was vandalized after an unlawful assembly Saturday.

New Jersey: Atlantic City officials declared a state of emergency Sunday and set an 8 p.m. curfew that will expire at 6 a.m. Monday morning. New Jersey Transit bus service to Atlantic City was also been suspended.

New York: The New York governor's office announced the state was sending several cities additional support and resources to assist with disturbances which are expected to happen Sunday night. Rochester requested 200 additional state police to support their local law enforcement, while 150 troopers were sent to Buffalo. The National Guard was on standby if cities need more than the state police.

The Manhattan Bridge between Brooklyn and Manhattan was closed in both directions.

A senior New York City Police Department terrorism official said on Sunday there is evidence that members of anarchist groups from outside the city intentionally planned to incite violence. The official said that these unnamed groups had organized scouts, medics, and supply routes of rocks, bottles, and accelerants for breakaway groups to commit vandalism and violence. There are strong indicators they planned for violence in advance using at times encrypted communications, he said.

At least 33 police officers were injured, and 47 police vehicles were damaged or destroyed in New York City on Saturday night. The officers were injured amid disturbances throughout parts of Brooklyn and Manhattan. There were 345 people arrested in New York City on Saturday night and into early Sunday morning. That brings total arrests to more than 600 since unrest began Thursday night. The FBI arrested and federally charged three people with trying to set off Molotov cocktails against the New York City Police Department on Friday night. A number of downtown Manhattan businesses, including North Face and Adidas were broken into and looted. A handful of vehicles were set on fire near Union Square.

Ohio: Cincinnati signed an emergency order Sunday that places the entire city under a curfew from 9 p.m. local time through 6 a.m. This order is in effect through June 2.

Authorities say that 110 people have been arrested since Friday. Cincinnati police also reported an officer was struck in their ballistic helmet while working to disperse crowds in the Clifton area around 12:30 a.m. Sunday. Several fires were also seen break out in the Clifton area, as well as damage reported to buildings.

Oklahoma: The Oklahoma Highway Patrol (OHP) questioned a driver of a truck that drove through a crowd of gatherers blocking the I-244 bridge in Tulsa Sunday. Two people were transported with minor injuries, according to OHP.

Oregon: People broke windows and entered in the federal courthouse in Portland Sunday. Authorities used riot control agents to disperse the people inside the courthouse, who reportedly set fires inside the building.

Pennsylvania: Philadelphia requested the help of the National Guard to support their local law enforcement and help protect "sensitive areas." All city of Philadelphia government operations, except public safety, will be closed on Monday out of an abundance of caution. The Philadelphia mayor's office plans extended the city's curfew and imposed a lockdown on the City Center area of downtown.

Philadelphia saw at least nine fires and 109 arrests around the city Saturday night into Sunday morning. Philadelphia police reported Saturday night that an officer had been run over by an unidentified vehicle while attempting to stop looting in the city.

Police and an Allegheny County Bomb Squad unit are investigating a suspicious package they say was left in a Mt. Lebanon park by three men following a gathering in Pittsburgh. According to Mt. Lebanon police, the men cannot be charged until the bomb squad completes their testing of the liquid that was found in the package. Authorities do not believe at this time that the liquids are incendiary. Police have also obtained a search warrant to see if the three men have any connection to any groups.

South Carolina: A senior official in Myrtle Beach declared a civil emergency Sunday after officials said a violent threat was made in relation to ongoing unrest. The decision was made after officials received information about a "credible threat" against the local police department. The city imposed a 6 p.m. curfew on Sunday, forcing city businesses to close.

Tennessee: The Tennessee Highway Patrol and the National Guard were authorized to provide support to restore order after an official described gatherings in Murfreesboro as "overt threats to public safety" on Sunday.

I-55 at Crump Boulevard in Memphis was blocked off due to a large group of people gathering there Sunday night. Traffic was shut down both ways going onto I-55 due to people.

About 30 businesses and buildings were damaged late Saturday and early Sunday, including several on Broadway, according to the Metro Nashville Police Department (MNPd). Police reported at least 28 arrests. Four individuals were arrested during a confrontation outside the Central Police Precinct. At least six MNPd vehicles have been significantly damaged, but no MNPd personnel were reported injured.

Texas: The Texas governor's office declared a state of disaster Sunday for the entire state.

Dallas declared a local disaster Sunday. A 7 p.m. local time to 6 a.m. curfew has been imposed for areas within the city for the next several days. The areas included in the curfew order are Deep Ellum, Farmers Market, Cedars, the West End, Victory Park, and Uptown.

San Antonio issued an updated local disaster declaration and temporary curfew for the downtown business district with curfews that went into effect at 6 p.m. Sunday. Alamo Plaza was closed to the public starting at 6 p.m. and the rest of the downtown business district was closed at 10 p.m.

Virginia: The Virginia governor's office declared a state of emergency on Sunday following "escalating violence across the Commonwealth." The declaration allocated $350,000 for recovery efforts in local jurisdictions and extended the curfew in Richmond through Wednesday. The declaration additionally allows for the mobilization of resources, including the National Guard.

There were several fires throughout downtown Richmond from disturbances that started Saturday. The headquarters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy burned early Sunday and several statues along the city's Monument Avenue were defaced. An apartment building on a downtown street also caught fire, but people initially would not let fire crews through until police cleared the area with tear gas. People targeted police headquarters for the second night in a row, as a dumpster was set afire near the headquarters and, on Friday, had its front windows broken. A police cruiser was burned in the violence on Friday night, along with a city bus. Additionally, the Richmond Police Department is investigating a shooting with one victim that happened during the unrest Sunday morning.

Washington: Washington activated the National Guard statewide Sunday. The state previously capped deployment at 600 members of the National Guard, but violence in Spokane County prompted an expansion of the order.

At least 27 people were arrested Saturday night in Seattle, according to the Seattle Police Department (SPD). The SPD added that the alleged offenses varied from assault to arson, destruction, and looting.

Washington, DC: Washington, DC, ordered a citywide curfew for the District from 11:00 p.m. on Sunday until 6:00 a.m. on Monday. The National Guard was also ordered by the District to support the Metropolitan Police Department. The entire Washington, DC, National Guard was requested by the city.

The U.S. Marshals, agents with the Drug Enforcement Administration, the National Guard were deployed to assist law enforcement in the Lafayette Square area, which is across from the White House. White House executive office staff reportedly received an email urging them to stay away from the White House complex Sunday. People reportedly broke through a barrier near a line of police and National Guard at Lafayette Square Park near the White House. Multiple fires were reportedly set within blocks of the White House. St. John's Episcopal, across the street from the White House and Lafayette Square, was set on fire. A U.S. National Park Service building in Lafayette Park was also set on fire.

The U.S. Secret Service (USSS) said that more than 60 officers and special agents were injured during the unrest near the White House that began Friday and continued into early Sunday. Eleven officers were brought to the hospital and treated for non-life-threatening injuries. Six USSS vehicles were vandalized, the agency said, and people repeatedly tried to knock over security barriers. According to the agency, one person was arrested between Saturday and early Sunday.

Gatherings Saturday night resulted in 17 arrests. Eleven police officers were injured in Saturday's gatherings. Additionally, 29 police vehicles were damaged. Stores in areas like Georgetown and CityCenter saw significant damage, while some stores in Farragut Square were also impacted.
