Subject: Activity Summary 6/22/20

22:00 hours, there were only about 100 protesters in front of the Justice Center on 3rd Ave. They were getting no response so they ventured around to 2nd Ave. They blocked the street for a short time but PPB made announcements to leave the street and everyone complied on their own and went to the sidewalk.

23:00 hours, Protesters had marched around a bit. They didn't seem very well organized tonight.

23:30 hours, Protesters back on 3rd Ave in front of the Justice Center. PPB made announcements to leave the street and they did. This happened several times. A silver car parked on 3rd Ave in Police Parking and the protesters blocked the street again. PPB sent a team out and they arrested the driver of the vehicle and had it towed. Everyone else went to the sidewalk and back in the park.

23:40 hours, PPB made an announcement that the park would be closing at midnight.

24:00 hours, PPB announces that the park is closed. Protesters leave on their own with most of them heading West.

00:15 hours, about 15 individuals made their way back to the park.

02:00 hours, about 6 individuals milling about in view of the Hatfield cameras.

An oddly quiet night. There was almost no attention given to the Hatfield Courthouse.
I'll update everyone if anything changes.

Thank you,

Thanks Jeff.

Our (b) (7)(E) are just terrific. They go and do things that few others on the planet can do. They lead the way with great courage and skill, and shore up the resolve of others when a little stiffer resolve is needed. They are highly skilled at breaking things that need to be broken while also not breaking things that do not need breaking. I am very proud of (b) (7)(E) (b) (5)

Sir,

For your awareness:

Attached is a SITREP put together by TOD for Seattle and Portland. My recommendation going forward is to only report significant activity, rather than a daily SITREP. This assessment is based on this being a (b) (7)(E) assignment which do not normally require a daily report.

Please let me know if you have any objections.

Risks/Challenges: Damage to property and continued targeting of law enforcement personnel.

Department of Homeland Security's Current Emerging Threats Center (CETC) continues to track violent incidents and threats of violence throughout the country. Overall attacks against law enforcement by violent opportunists have declined over the last 36 hours, probably as a result of law enforcement and National Guard efforts to limit large crowds and enforce curfews. Despite reports of peaceful protests in localized areas, we assess that public perceptions regarding recent law enforcement incidents continue to have the potential to become flashpoints for a broad range of violent opportunists in the coming days. Violent opportunists almost certainly will continue to exploit officer-involved deaths to justify reprisal attacks against law enforcement officers. Throughout the weekend, we anticipate seeing a surge in online threats from violent opportunists seeking to incite violence related to memorial services for George Floyd.

Officer Safety:

There have been multiple incidents across the country that have led to an increase in animosity toward law enforcement nationwide.

- LEOs should remain vigilant and cognizant of their surroundings at all times. LEOs should be constantly scanning their surroundings for suspicious activity and/or individuals. Additionally, members working in police facilities should conduct periodic security checks to check for suspicious individuals and unsecured entrances/exits.
- Members are advised to be cautious of putting law enforcement identifiers on their personally owned vehicles which could make their vehicle a target for criminals. In addition, law enforcement members should inspect their personally owned vehicles for similar markings. (Metropolitan Police Department Intelligence Bulletin)
- An active-duty U.S. Air Force sergeant suspected of wielding a rifle and improvised explosives in the ambush killing of a 38-year-old Northern California sheriff's deputy is also being investigated for a possible connection to the fatal shooting last month of a federal officer during a protest in Oakland, CA. Risks/Challenges: Damage to property and potential continued targeting of law enforcement personnel.

According to Homeland Security Intelligence Report, in the aftermath of the death of George Floyd on May 25, Current and Emerging Threats Center (CETC) is tracking incidents of violence against US Law Enforcement Officers (LEOs) and subsequent arrests (to include arrests of individuals who traveled out-of-state) stemming from the civil unrest. CETC has compiled the below numbers from information being shared by federal, state and local partners as well as press reporting. CETC estimates the official number of LEOs injured and the official number of arrests made is significantly higher. CETC is working with our partners across the U.S. to obtain additional information.

Total LEOs Injured During Unrest		Total LEOs Injured in past 24 hours
215		61
Total Number of Arrests	Arrests in Past 24 Hours	Arrests of Out of State Individuals
8915	2806	182

Next Steps: TOD OEM will continue to staff the JOCC, obtain SITREPs from Districts/Divisions, and provide Executive Briefings as requested.

Risks/Challenges: Damage to property and potential continued targeting of law enforcement personnel.

Homeland Security has received numerous reports of violent opportunists using Molotov Cocktails targeting law enforcement assets. On May 29, 2020, two separate events in New York City resulted in four arrests and damage to one New York Police Department vehicle. In a similar incident, suspected anarchist extremists used a Molotov Cocktail against law enforcement performing crowd control activities in Louisville, Kentucky.

An official from the Minnesota Department of Public Safety advised that officers found caches of flammable materials, weapons, and stolen vehicles while responding to violence in the Twin Cities. Flammables were also found in vehicles that were believed to be stolen because their license plates had been removed, and weapons and other projectiles have been found during the investigation.

FBI Boston has received credible intelligence that rioters are looking for officer's home addresses via public payroll records. One local town had over 20K hits on the public payroll webpage in 48 hours.
