DEPUTY

Pursuant to the Court's Order dated July 25, 2018 (Doc. 124), the parties submit this Joint Recommendation regarding the next steps in this case.

I. Answer to the Amended Complaint

Plaintiffs do not seek further amendment of the Amended Complaint at this time.
Defendant Donald J. Trump in his official capacity will file an Answer to the Amended Complaint by September 5, 2018.

II. General Discovery Outline

A. Description

Plaintiffs' Position:

Plaintiffs recognize that the President intends to file a motion asking this Court to certify an interlocutory appeal pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b) and, if certification is granted, for a stay of proceedings pending appeal. Plaintiffs will oppose the relief sought by this motion, and will respond to the President's arguments in support of that relief in accordance with the briefing schedule adopted by this Court. In the meantime, Plaintiffs believe that proceedings in this Court can and should proceed and have set forth proposed deadlines for such proceedings elsewhere in this filing.

Given the ongoing nature of the alleged violations and the type of relief sought (i.e., declaratory and injunctive), Plaintiffs anticipate focused discovery geared towards an expeditious resolution of the case. Plaintiffs anticipate that much of the information relevant to prove Plaintiffs' claims in the case is in the possession, custody, or control of non-parties. Much of this discovery will be directed at the third-party entities that own, control, and manage the Trump International Hotel ("the Hotel") and BLT Steakhouse ("the Restaurant"). Plaintiffs anticipate the need for document discovery from these entities to determine the nature and extent of government funds received by the Hotel and/or Restaurant and the flow of these funds to the Defendant through the Donald J. Trump Revocable Trust. Plaintiffs expect to depose at least some of these entities.

In addition, Plaintiffs anticipate the need for discovery of third parties unrelated to the Trump Organization, including the General Services Administration and governmental entities who may have spent government funds at the Hotel and/or Restaurant. Plaintiffs further anticipate the need for expert discovery.

Position of the President in his official capacity:

The President, in his official capacity, intends to imminently move for certification of the Court's March 28 and July 25, 2018 Orders for interlocutory appeal pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b) and for a stay of proceedings pending appeal. The Court's decision on the President's motion to dismiss presents a paradigmatic example of a case warranting such certification. As the President's § 1292(b) motion will demonstrate, not only do the two Orders satisfy the statutory criteria for certification, but this case presents the circumstance of a sitting President being subjected to civil discovery in his official capacity, which will necessarily implicate significant separation of powers concerns.

The President therefore would object to any discovery directed to him in his official capacity on several grounds, including that such discovery is improper in a case where, as here, the President believes that the Court cannot issue the requested declaratory and injunctive relief against him. Moreover, the Supreme Court has made clear that discovery directed to the President in civil litigation should be strictly circumscribed because of the significant separation of powers concerns that would arise. Cheney v. U.S. Dist. Ct. for D.C., 542 U.S. 367, 389–90 (2004). As the Supreme Court has further instructed, “‘occasional[s] for constitutional confrontation between the two branches’ should be avoided whenever possible.” Id. (quoting United States v. Nixon, 418 U.S. 683, 692 (1974))).

If discovery against the President in his official capacity were allowed to proceed now, it could lead to a constitutional confrontation between two branches of Government. In contrast, the Court of Appeals’ early resolution of the controlling questions of the law presented in this case could avoid such confrontation. It could also conserve the Court’s and the parties’ resources because if the Court of Appeals agrees with the President’s threshold or merits arguments, discovery could be obviated or significantly narrowed. The Court should thus exercise restraint by staying district court proceedings until this Court’s jurisdiction and the validity of Plaintiffs’ novel constitutional theory are addressed on interlocutory appeal.

If the Court allows discovery to proceed in this case, the President anticipates pursuing discovery concerning Plaintiffs’ standing to sue, including evidence of any economic harm suffered by hospitality establishments in the District of Columbia (“D.C.”) and Maryland—including those establishments in which Plaintiffs have financial interests—that is allegedly caused by their competition with the Trump International Hotel in Washington, D.C. (“Trump Hotel”). Such discovery may seek evidence of patronage of hospitality establishments in D.C. and Maryland—including those in which Plaintiffs have financial interests—by foreign, federal or state government-funded customers over time and any evidence as to whether such customers have shifted their business to the Trump Hotel. Such discovery may also seek evidence related to Plaintiffs’ assertion of the “intolerable dilemma” they allegedly face in connection with the President’s ownership interest in the Trump Hotel. Moreover, the President anticipates the need for expert discovery.

B. Outline of Anticipated Schedule

The parties agree to hold a Rule 26(f) Conference on September 6, 2018. The parties will submit a written report to the Court pursuant to Rule 26(f) by no later than September 14, 2018. Although a more complete proposed discovery schedule will be discussed at that time, additional information from the parties about a general outline of the anticipated schedule is below.

Plaintiffs’ Position:

Plaintiffs anticipate needing approximately six months to complete fact discovery and an additional two months to complete expert discovery. Accordingly, Plaintiffs anticipate that, in the absence of a stay of these proceedings, fact discovery would close mid-March 2019, and expert discovery would close mid-May 2019.

Position of the President in his official capacity:

Defendant anticipates that the discovery he intends to seek would take approximately three months.

III. Other Matters

A. Motion for Certification and, if Granted, for a Stay of District Court Proceedings

As noted above, President Trump in his official capacity plans to file a motion, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b), to certify for interlocutory appeal the Court's March 28 and July 15 Orders on the Motion to Dismiss (Doc. 101 and 123) and, if granted, to stay proceedings pending appeal.

The parties have conferred and agreed on a proposed briefing schedule, as follows:

Motion for Certification under 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b) August 17, 2018

Opposition to Motion for Certification September 17, 2018

Reply in Support of Motion October 1, 2018

B. The President's Motion to Dismiss the Individual Capacity Claims

The President's motion to dismiss the claims against him in his individual capacity remains pending, and the Court has indicated that "[a]ny further hearing to consider the arguments in Defendant's Individual Capacity Motion to Dismiss will be set in consultation with counsel." Doc. 124. The parties have agreed that no discovery will be served against the President in his individual capacity unless and until the motion to dismiss is denied.¹ Defendants respectfully ask that the Court resolve that motion at its earliest possible convenience given that, if the motion is denied, having the official and individual claims on different tracks may complicate discovery and ultimately lead to an inefficient allocation of party and judicial resources. Plaintiffs take no position on the timeline for resolving the motion to dismiss, but will make themselves available at the Court's convenience if the Court concludes that argument on the motion is necessary.

¹ Counsel for the President in his individual capacity takes no position on the parties' current proposals on discovery, and reserves all objections and rights with respect to discovery until after a decision is made on the motion to dismiss the claims against the President in his individual capacity. See Doc. No. 112.
